She knew him as an extremely devout man and wondered that he did not bow his head and strike his breast. When the little bell chimed for the elevation of the sacred host, the old man gasped twice, his eyes became glassy and fixed on the altar. His head sunk slowly upon bis breast. It now appears reasonably certain that S. R. Majors of Bowling Green will be chosen Senate doorkeeper. He has the full support of the eleven members who were in the caucus this morning. The caucus was held in a private room and lasted from 10 c'clock until a few minutes after the noon hour.

ABOUT THE JOBS.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 5.—"I am in favor of giving pie counter seats to the needy ones," remarked Senator Anderson of Boone County. "I am surprised," continued the Senator, "at the list of applicants for piaces. I cannot begin to name all of them, but the number is great. And I may add that in many instances the place-hunters are in comparatively easy financial circumstances—not really in need of the revenue to be derived from filling these positions. Other things being equal, I am in favor of giving the jobs to those who are really in need of employment. As a general rule this class is equally as worthy as the more affluent applicants."

Ringing Speech of Gov. Stone on the Past and Future of the Party.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 5 .- Out of all the excitement and hurrah brought about by the congregating of legislators, politicians and place hunters in Jefferson City, the friends of Gov. William J. Stone find time to pay cordial tribute to the retiring executive. Last Saturday night an in-House in this city, at which Gov. Stone ap-House in this city, at which Gov. Stone appeared as the central figure. Among those present were: Judge D. W. Shackleford of Boonville and the following officials and residents of Jefferson City: Henry W. Ewing, W. S. Pope, F. E. Lucket, Secretary of State A. A. Lesueur, Paul B. Moore, J. W. Henry, Capt. J. B. Tolln, Edward Orear. T. O. Towles, A. W. Ewing, S. D. Gordon, Stephen Chapman, Kim Winston and Al Morrow.

Guest," by Judge Shackelford, Gov. Stone made an impromptu talk which was replete with political wisdom and timely truth. In substance the Governor spoke as follows:

"As this company is composed of Democrats by those sides I have fought the battles of the past, I feel at liberty to speak to you of party politics. The great victory won in Missouri entitles the Democracy of the State to the congratulations that have been showered upon us by our brethren throughout the Union. I believe if the other States had been organized as this was we could have wrested victory from our enemies in the national contest. Even as it was, and under all the circumstances surrounding that struggle, I feel that we are in a large measure victors even in the hour of defeat. Eighteen months ago the Democratic party was in a state of complete disorganization and seemed to be nearer dissolution than ever before in its history. The National Administration, which our party had created, had turned against the long established principles and policies—the and principles and policies—the and opposed for nearly a century, and all of which it had been repeatedly committed against.
"As my friend Judge Shackelford has opposed for nearly a century, and all of which it had been repeatedly committed against.

"As my friend Judge Shackelford has said, I was bitterly opposed to Mr. Cleveland's nomination, or the nomination of any man of his views and surroundings. But after his nomination I contributed all I could to his election, hoping that the many promises made in his name would be verified in the event of his election. But when a few months after his inauguration, in 1893, he deliberately turned his back upon the issues upon which he was elected and sought almost without disguise to betray the party into the hands of the opposition, I refused to follow him. Three days after he issued his proclamation summoning Congress in special session to repeal unconditionally the so-called Sherman law and thereby sweep from the statutes every vestige of legislation authorizing the coinage of silver, I declared in a public speech at Washington Park in Kansas City that I would not follow him, but would fight him, although I should stand alone among all the Democrats of Missouri. I was happy to find that this expression found quick response in the hearts of Missouri was happy to find that this expression found quick response in the hearts of proand the confloctant and assessment of the found quick response in the hearts of Missouri Democratas.

"Still for months we were in a state of profound uncertainty and great confusion, for a feeling the state of profound uncertainty and great confusion, for the still provide the still provide the still provide the still provided the still for the still still provided the s

"In this way the battle at the polls in 1896 was opened, and notwithstanding all these difficulties and embarrassments we failed only by a narrow margin in winning a memorable triumph. We were defeated, but out of the dust and shadow of the conflict we came forth better organized and in finer condition for effective work than we had been for years. I venture to say without fear that never in our history has a political party come up out of defeat so little depressed by disaster and so imbued with the spirit of battle as did the Democratic party in November of last year. I have never seen or heard of a man who voted for Bryan who was sorry that he did so, and who is net both anxious and willing to try the issue again as speedily as possible. It is because of all this that I say we are victorious even in defeat.

"Now as to the future: As for myself I."

that I say we are victorious even in defeat.

"Now as to the future: As for myself I do not want in 1900 to be compelled to fight over again a battle within our party such as we had to fight preceding the Chicago convention. Those so-called Democrats, who constitute the cleveland-Palmer contingent, fell outside the breastworks. Let them stay there, or into open affiliation, as they have been in secret affiliation, with the Republican party. Those people have since the election repeatedly declared through their national and State committees and through the press that they represent the real Democracy, and that we will have to come to them. As to what they claim to represent I am indifferent; we will not quarrel shout terms; they can claim what they will. But when they talk about the Democra'te party surrendering to them it will never be done while truth is omnipotent and Americans preserve heir manhood.

what they will. But when they talk about it will never be done while truth is omnipotent and Americans preserve helr manhood.

"More than that, I shall protest on all occasions against these people even coming to us. Shall these men who deserted in the hour of battle and who still boast of their party recreancy be admitted into the councils of the party? I say no, again and again, them the fight is all over, and the supporters of Perkins have nothing left to do but the shouting. QUAY IS BITTER.

He Would Even Use Cameron to Beat Wanamaker.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 5.—Both branches of the Legislature convene to-day in regular session. The Senatorial contest overshadows all other issues, and the capter of the randidates. Those of the randidates. Those of in regular session. The Senatorial contest overshadows all other issues, and the capital is crowded as it has never been before with retainers of the candidates. Those of ex-Postmaster-General John Wanamaker and State Senator Penrose are particularly in evidence. Exciting as have been the preliminaries of the fight, it is more than probable that the contest itself will be the hottest ever known in the Keystone State. It is the Quay machine against the field, and embraced in the latter are not only all the elements that sought the downfall of Senator Quay little more than a year ago, and the personal adherents of John Wanamaker, but also an army of merchants and business men who hold that a clean and upright citizen of standing and reputation, rather than a machine politician, should represent the commonwealth in the United States Senate as the successor of J. Donald Cameron.

There have been rumors that, in the event of Senator Quay finding it impossible to elect Penrose he would fall back on Senator Cameron and permit him to succeed himself, but the latter has not yet publicly receded from the position he took last summer that nothing on earth could induce him to remain in public life. The session, therefore, is likely to be further memorable from the fact that it will witness the passing from the political stage of the last member of the great Scotch dynasty that so long ruled the political fortunes of the State with an iron hand. In Pennisylvania, as in Illinois, the incoming national administration has manifested a decided disnclination toward using its influence in behalf of or against any of the candidates, but it is nevertheless asserted by the Quayites that the Hanna forces are doing their best in behalf of John Wanamaker.

A ROD IN PICKLE FOR COL. BUTLER.

THE EMINENT PHILANTHROPIST IGNORED A SUMMONS.

JUDGE KLEIN WILL SEE HIM.

The Boss' Failure to Appear as a Juror Has Set the Sheriff After Him.

Whether Col. Ed Butler thinks himself above the law or is merely neglectful of his duty as a citizen is a question that Judge Klein will probably decide in assessing the dered in the $5,000 damage suit of Geo. De Barrow against the Lindell Railway Co. for the death of his daughter, pending in Judge Barrow against the Lindell Rallway Co, for the death of his daughtet, pending in Judge Klein's division of the Circuit Court.

Col. Ed Butler was one of those selected by Jury Commissioner Mansfield to make up the special venire. The Colonel was duly served with the jury summons.

He may have intended to respond, when he pocketed it, and he may not. At all events, he made no effort to be excused from service. He did not appear in court Tueslay morning, the date set for hin to respond.

On account of the initial letter, Col. Butler's name was well toward the top of the jury list. When it was read and no responds came, Judge Klein frowned, adjusted his spectacles and inquired as to the manner service had been secured on the reputed Democratic boss of St. Louis. Being informed that he had been personally served, Judge Klein ordered an attachment issued.

It was made out and carried to the Sheriff Troll to make diligent search for one Edward Butler, Sr., arrest him and safely keep him until his body was produced in Circuit Court-room No. 1.

The attachment described Col. Butler as manager of the St. Louis Sanitary Co., office 43 South Tenth street, and residence 2304 Pine street.

One explanation advanced for Col. Butler's contempt of court was that he was too busy searching for that missing diamond stud to respond to a court process.

When served with the attachment and subjected to the humiliation of arrest, if he is, he may wonder why it is that Hon. Chauncey Ives Filley, the Boss of the Republican party, is never summoned as a juro.

Sass, at 5850 Etzel avenue, called at the Four Courts Tuesday and identified Conley as the man who broke into the house Conley as the man who broke into the house of Mr. Winters, 5048 Etzel avenue, Sunday night. The Winters family was away from home and asked Watchman Hays to keep his eye on the premises. Hays heard a noise of breaking glass at the Winters house and, on making an investigation, found that Conley had broken in and was in hiding under the bed. Hays dragged the man out and, thinking he was only a tramp seeking a night's shelter, kicked him out into the street. Conley then found his way into the Morris house and was making himself comfortable when arrested.

In the House the Kent County Republicans were ignored, though they protested and remained standing on the floor for an hour before they withdrew. They organized a second House on the second floor of the Hotel Richardson. George Fisher Pearce and John M. C. Moore, two Republican Senators, refused to participate in the organization of a rump Senate. After the organization of both branches the two houses adjourned until 3 o'clock. CEICAGO, Ill., Jan. 5.—The storm which has been raging for forty-eight hours in the Northwest has not increased in severity, save perhaps in Iowa, and the Weather Bureau office in this city, which runs affairs generally in the Northern Mississippt Valley, is upon record as declaring that within a short time the storm will "prob-

The wind has been high throughout the storm, and in some instances has shown remarkable pertinacity in clinging to the high figures, it having for thirty-six hours kept up a fifty-two-mile-per-hour gait at Huron, the lake region and Upper Mississippi Val-ley, but there has been no heavy fall of snow east of Iowa. In Iowa the fall of sleet and snow has been very heavy, and the reports indicate lower temperature and more snow.

In Western Kansas there has been mu trouble because of the snow packing scross the tracks, and trains have been held at eating stations until the tracks can be cleared. The storm is practically over in this locality, and the eky is clearing. Nebraska has had about the same perience, and is under drifts anywh from two to ten feet high.

ST. LOUIS AND SOUTH AMERICA. St. Louis is in geographical and financial position to control much South Amer-ican trade. And South America is to pe the greatest field of commercial conquest in the coming century.

We already have railroad facilities to the Eastern Gulf ports. The railroad development of Mexico is now so rapid that before long shipments from St. Louis to the Pacific ports of South America can be made by breaking bulk at Mazatlan. That is, of course, if this city is ever to force proper recognition by railway corporations,

A LAW TO AMEND.

What is known in Illinois as the "parol law" has been declared unconstitutional. The decision is based upon the fact that indeterminate sentence feature of the law, vesting Prison Boards with judicial powers, is unconstitutional.

The decision is a sound one, and if the ase is taken to a court of final durisdiction it will certainly be affirmed. The statutes of Illinois, as of every other State, are specific in fixing the maximum terms of imprisonment for all penal offenses. The Parole law practically repealed all these statutes, robbed the courts of their discretion and week of the judicial powers taken from the courts in Penitentiary Boards.

It was an ill-considered measure, altogether inadequate to serve the ends in practical operation, to greatly aug-ment the difficulties of prosecuting officers. These defects in the present law do not, however, constitute a valid reason for its repeal. The law can be easily amended to meet all objections raised against Such laws are in no sense experimental. They have been in successfu operation in England for years. New York has a Parole law which Illinois should have taken for a model, as it will now do if that State is anxious to reduce the pressure of convict competition with onest labor.

THE SPRINGFIELD, VICTORY.

The Democratic party, not only of Illinois but of the country, won a brilliant victory at Springfield Monday night. Since the late election insidious influnces, working mainly through John P. Hopkins and William S. Forman, have been at work throughout the State on the line of harmonizing the party by a surrender of its principles. These men have insisted that exaltation in party council shall be the reward of party treachery, and that the organization shall be controlled by those who lately attempted to destroy it.

These elements supported the candi-dacy of Mr. Hinrichsen for Chairman of the State Committee. The rank and file of the party, seeing the danger and feel-ing its need of bold and capable leadership, turned to Gov. Altgeld.

He was equal to his party's demand and to his own opportunity. Much has been said as to the doubtful issue of the contest between Altgeld and Hinrichsen, but there has never been any real doubt of the result. The power and prestige and matchless skill of Altgeld were predestined to win.

The victory was complete and crushing. The vote of 26 to 2 makes the arithmetical history of the case, but back of the figures stand the great principles for which Altgeld stood, and these are thus expressed in the resolution adopted by the Committee:

Be it resolved by the Democratic State Central Committee, that we pledge ourselves to support and carry out the principles and declarations of the last Democratic National Convention, believing that the financial policy of that convention, declaring in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, would have been ore effective in restoring prosperity in this country than the empty promises and boastings of the Republican party. We believe it expedient and right to contend for the restoration of silver to its former place as primary money, believing that the volume of money circulating in any country regulates in large measure the prosperity of its people. Therefore, we heartily in-dorse an increase in the volume of money through an increased use of silver, in conformity with the principles of the last Democratic platform. We offer no apology for our late effort on behalf of the toiling candidate for that high office. We invite all good citizens who believe as we do on the leading questions of the day to affiliate with us, but we do not deem it wise to permit a change of policy to be dictated to us by those who joined the ene-my and heaped upon our heads abuse and masses. We point with pride to the magnificent campaign of our late standard bear-er, the Hon. William J. Bryan, and to the fact that he received more votes for President than were ever before cast for any venom, without cause or precedent. We condemn the Republican party for promises made during the last campaign which they well knew could not materialize Honest men were led to believe that by a restoration of confidence through the election of McKinley prosperity would be immediately restored, yet we see misery and dis-tress broken out afresh. We believe that the masses will again return to the Democratic party for relief, as they have always done heretofore, and that the near future will find the Democratic party once more

What the gold standard means for American smokers is the short clay pipe. It goes along with wages that cannot be reduced any lower. And it will surely come if the gold standard is maintained on enough.

Of Minnesota's area of 46,000,000 acres the railroads have been granted more than 20,000,000 acres. All that the State gets for this enormous acreage is 3,200 miles of railroad, owned by corporations. These lands are worth $103,000,000, and will increase in value. Possibly the corporations would have been given the remainder of the State if they had asked for it. There is further discouraging bank news from Minnesota and Iowa, both of which States voted for Mr. McKinley under promise of an immediate restora tion of confidence.

The honest men in banks should be watched with care as well as the suspected. The vigilance exercised toward honest men on the outside of the railing would go far toward solidifying a bank if it were exercised inside.

THE THEATERS.

"The Geisha" is pretty and picturesque, occasionally entertaining, and occasionally insipid, at no time good enough to rouse enthusiasm and at no time bad enough to justify earnest condemnation. As a theatrical entertainment it is very like tea as a beverage, pleasant and fragrant, and cheering to a mild darrage but not exhibitantics. national agreement as the outcome of the conference. But when it is considered that the interests of Lombard street, of the Paris Bourse and of the Berlin Exchange are unalterably opposed to bimetallism, just as the interests of Wall and Broad streets in New York and Mr. Yerkes is a member of the Republican National Committee.

Miss Georgia Cayvan, for so long the leading woman and principal attraction in the New York Lyceum Theater stock com-pany, appeared at the Olympic last night, surrounded by her own company of players. It was her St. Louis debut as a star and the well-dressed audience present received her as an old friend. The play in which she her as an old friend. The play in which she made her appearance is an English comedy, by W. R. Walker, entitled "Mary Pennington, Spinster." It has to do with the trials of a new woman, who imagines her sex is being trampled upon and enslaved, by reason of its hearkening to the promptings of the heart. Being left sole heir to an immense paper factory, by the death of her father, she determines to show woman's cather, she determines to show woman's capacity equal to that of man in business. She proceeds to run this factory and at the same time build up a lot of theories as to the mentality of woman and the relationships which should exist between her and man. When the first act opens this fabric is a thoroughly accomplished fact. She has made herself believe that she is simply a business woman; that she has no heart; that she is man's equal, and that if time alone is given her, she will emancipate all womankind. Then the author goes to work to dismantle, for the benefit of the audience, ing her fortune and almost wrecking her life. Only the good offices of a fine old family doctor save her from ruin and bring John Robinson said he remembered in 1870, her to her senses at last, just a simple womintelligence thrilling, he met a man of sci- the sound of one man's voice; glad to have ence who asked, "My dear fellow, when are a good, strong, manly arm on which to lean. you going to give us something of interest. Duffy, the injured boxer, was not known in New York until the fight. He is a well-built boy, weighing about 118 pounds, and looked to be in condition to engage in a contest for ten rounds with a boy of Justice's ablitty. Neither of them were of sufficient standing in the puglistic line to excite anything more than ordinary interest in their efforts.

TROUBLE WITH THE WIRES.

Usual Annoyances Caused by Celebrators and the Bain.

The rain Saturday and Sunday gave the Supervisor of City Lighting plenty to do. A persistent rainfall always causes trouble. The water soaks through the insulating material in a few hours and causes the wires terial in a few hours and causes the wires to burn in two.

In the two days of rainy seather enough reports of broken wires came in to the City Lighting Department to fill four pages of a record book, and comparatively few of the breaks were reported.

In one instance, Mr. O'Reilly, in responding to a complaint about a broken wire, found six which had not been reported.

The trouble following New Year's day was the same as is caused every holiday. People who celebrate with firearms are not supposed to load them with balls, but they do ft. They are discharged in the air and it is not easy for the bullets to get through the net work of wires without cutting one of more. Enough are broken in this way to make a great deal of work for Mr. O'Reiliy's men.

Since Jan. 1 it has been necessary to re-men.

Since Jan. 1 it has been necessary to repair about 250 telephone wires.

Forecaster Frankenfield Says That th Crest of the High Water

Is in Sight. The exclusive announcement in Monday's Post-Dispatch that the river had broken its record by rising 13.2 feet in twenty-four hours caused St. Louisans to realize what a heavy rain there was Saturday and Sun-Sunday and they worked like Trojans to save their property. Tuesday the signs of appearance of people who wanted to see Local Men Might Combine and Shut appearance of people who wanted to see what a flood was like.

They beheld a vast expanse of muddy water extending from a high mark on the levee not far from the surface railroad tracks, to the elevators on the sast side. Toward the Illimois shore the vast tide was lost in a maze, which reminded spectators of the high water of 1892, when the Mississippi was a great lake.

There scarcely seemed room for boats with big smokestacks to pass under the Eads bridge, so small was the space from the spans to the fast-flowing current. Sixty-four feet was the height of the middle span Tuesday morning and the City of Paducah was the only boat with big stacks to go under. She was towed up stream by tugs, as her captain did not think it worth while to get up steam to go a few blocks along the river front. The attempt to pass under was not made until considerable figuring had been done in the wharf office, 16 North Levee.

Other vessels did not make the effort to Levee.

Other vessels did not make the effort to go under the bridge, simply because they hid no call to do so, as this is the closed season for river traffic.
The monotonous sea of muddy water was mid no call to do so, as this is the closed season for fiver traffic.

The monotonous sea of muddy water was only relieved by ferryboats, that stubbornly breasted the tide; by tugs, that darted like gulls along the surface, giving aid to the wharfboats, and by forests of lumber that had been swept from the shores of many rivers. The driftwood in the river Monday and Tuesday represented thousands of dollars. St. Louis men alone lost 301,000 feet of the best quality of lumber.

The wharf boats rode on the swell of the river, over points on the Levee which last Saturday were many feet from the water's edge. Even in these positions their stages were in many cases beneath the surface and men were at work raising them.

The steamboats were so close in that passengers on the trains on the Levee elevated gazed out of the windows in amazement.

Piles of lumber and freight which had been moved from tanger by scores of roustabouts were within a few feet of the surface tracks, or else had been carried beneath the elevated tracks.

Local Forecaster Frankenfield, who pre-moved from danger by scores of roustabouts were within a few feet of the surface tracks, or else had been carried beneath the elevated tracks.

Local Forecaster Frankenfield, who predicted at twenty-five foot stage for Tuesday, came within a foot of it, and he will be vindicated before the day is over. The reading at observation time Tuesday morning was 21 feet, a rise of 4 feet since Monday morning and of 17 feet since Sunday.

Every foot of rise over twenty feet represents probably a ten-foot rise at a low stage, because the river has a much greater surface over which so spread its surplus tide. Hence the mass of water that made up the four foot rise since Monday was something enormous.

After studying the conditions at all the points which helps to boom the river a St. Louis Dr. Frankenfield made the following forecast Tuesday:

"The river will continue to rise slowly for the next day or two, but will probably not go above twenty-six feet."

This news was received with joy by river men and all who have property menaced by high water. The rare conditions that caused not only the Mississippi and the Missouri but their tributaries, the Illinois, the Gassonade and the Osage, to swell—produced in the minds of interested citizens visions of the disaster of 1892.

The prospective crest of twenty-six feet is close to the danger line of twenty-eight feet. At that stage the river throws owners of lumber yards and elevators along the river into hysterics and forces the railroads to abandon some of their tracks.

The most pleasing fact on the weather map Tuesday was a fall of one foot at Hermann on the Missouri River. The Missouri in times of high water gives river men the nightmare. In the opinion of old hands, the Mississippi at St. Louis coolilates according to the Missouri at Hermann.

The greatest rise since Monday was at St. ouis. At Peoria the Illinois rose 2.6 feet. t Arlington the Gasconade rose 1.1, and at ignell the Osage 70se 1.8.

ouis. At Peoria the limits so i.l., and at t Arlington the Gasconade rose i.l., and at t agnell the Osage rose i.s.

The largest individual loser in St. Louis is Charles Gaertner, who had 60,000 feet high grade lumber washed away from the oot of North Market street.

A large pile of railroad ties was swept away from the incline at the foot of Howard street. A man in South St. Louis got out in a skiff and caught 300 ties. The Hafner-Lothman Manufacturing Co., Riddle, Rehbin & Co., the Russell-Massengale Commission Co., and Kelly R. Chandler had lumber carried away. The total loss is placed at $5,000.

ber carried away. The total loss is placed at $5,000.

The Mississippi is still on the boom at Alton. The rise in the last thirty-six hours was fourteen feet, and it broke all records. A number of houseboats were swept down by the swift stream, and the occupants of the Glass Works Island and what is known as "Darkest Aiton" were compelled to leave their homes. Several families have been given quarters in the old Post-office building in Alton and are being cared for by the Charitable Association.

There is no uneasiness in East St. Louis, as Cahokia Creek has not overflowed.

As with the river, so with the weather, the end of present conditions seems to be in sight. The forecast made Tuesday was continued cold weather Tuesday night and slowly rising temperature Wednesday.

The thermometer in the Weather Bureau at 7a. m. Tuesday was 15 degrees, the coldest recorded during the present snap, and representing a fail of 10 degrees since Monday. The same weather conditions prevail all through the Central West. In the Dakotas and Manitoba the temperature is below zero, but in the extreme Northwest the temperature is rising rapidly. The storm is moving slowly toward the Northeast. It was central in the Upper Lake region Tuesday.

Qut Competition If There Were a Year of Delay.

Supervisor of City Lighting A. J. O'Reilly has received from the Century Electrical Co. of Cleveland, O., a request for a copy of the form of contract and specifications for the new electric light contract. They are still in the hands of the printer, but will be ready to send out in a few days.

The members of the Board of Public Improvements are gratified by this evidence of outside interest. The purpose of getting to work so soon on the matter was to have the widest possible competition in the bid-ding. The idea is that the only way to pre-vent the city being held up will be to make it easy for outside companies to come in and make impossible the expected combination of local companies.

Their policy will be to delay things. The new contract will begin Jan. 1, 1900. If a foreign company gets the contract it will have to come here and erect its plant. This will require at least two years' time.

If the awarding of the contract can be postponed until 1898, the local companies will have everything their own way.

Their dependence is in the Municipal Assembly. As at present constituted nobody doubts that they would be able to accomplish their purpose by a judicious use of money.

The possibility remains of Mr. Goldsmith refusing to resign, but Judges Bland, Bond and Biggs refuse to discuss that possibility. Meanwhile Michael Morrissey, who has been janitor of the Court of Appeals since it was first organized by appointments by the Governor, and R. C. Pew, the court Marshal, are on the anxious seat. When the St. Louis Court of Appeals reconvened at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, with Judge C. C. Bland presiding, there were more than the usual number of spectators, both because it was Judge Bland's initial service as presiding Judge, and because the announcement was expected of appointments to the positions of reporter, Marshal and Janitor.

The presence in the city of Judge John W. North of Neosho, Mo., spoken of for the appointment as reporter, increased the interest.

Interest.

Judge North was not in court when the Judges appeared, and Instead of announcing appointments, Judge Bland read the list of decisions completed by the court since the last batch was handed down Saturday. Judge Bland did not participate in the decisions, as the cases involved were argued before he took his seat.

There were five decisions and all were written by Judge Bond, concurred in by Judge Biggs.

written by Judge Bond, concurred in by Judge Biggs.
The docket was then called, the first case heard by the Court of Appeals with Judge Bland: a member, being that of La Belle Savings Bank vs. William Taylor et al., appellant, from Knox County.
It was a suit on a promissory note. O. D. Jones of Edina, Mo., Populist candidate for Governor at the last election, appeared as attorney for the defendant.
Some of the spectators lingered during the arguments until court adjourned at 12:30 o'clock, hoping 'that something would be done about apopintments, but nothing developed.

Judge North, when seen, said: "They may give me the position of court reporter, but if they do it will not be because of any agreement between me and Judge Bland. "Le withdrew from the Populist ticket simply because I knew there was no chance for my election and if I staid on the ticket Rombauer would be elected.

"Judge Bland may feel sufficiently indebted to me to give me the position of court reporter. In fact, I think if you'll go over to the Court-house you will find the appointment has been made."

A visit to the Court-house showed that the appointment had not been made. Judge North thinks his chances for the place are good.

DR. RICHARDSON'S SHARE OF THE M'CULLAGH ESTATE.

LAW ALLOWS HIM 5 PER CENT.

Sum Total of the Property It Is Thought Will Amount to About $200,000.

Dr. William C. Richardson, as Public Administrator, will make quite a tidy sum out of the estate of the late Joseph B. McCultrator a fee of 5 per cent on the total valuation of the estates which he settles, and as Mr. McCullagh's property is estimated to amount to about $200,000 Dr. Richardson will be $10,000 ahead before the close of the year. Dr. Richardson said Tuesday morning that no additional property had been discovered since the search of Monday, but it is known shares of Laclede Gas stock, and a diligent the members of the committee appeared effort is being made to find this. The market value of this holding is now about $12,500, as the stock is quoted at only 24%.

When Mr. McCullagh's desk was searched Monday afternoon in the Globe-Democrat Building an $1,800 ebeck was found. It was in payment of the profits to the editor on his thirty shares for one quarter. This is at the rate of $7,200 a year for his stock, which shows it to have an earning capacity at 6 per cent, equal to $120,000.

The dead editor was also found to have a bank account at the Bank of Commerce amounting to $26,693.43. Other cash was found among his private papers and in possession of Louis C. Bohle, his friend, amounting to $1,653.

So far as known the only real estate owned by the deceased was the house at 3113 Pine street. It is estimated to be worth $6,000.

A vast quantity of practically worthless mining stock, whose face value reached the enormous sum of $10,000,000, was found in Mr. McCullagh's box at the safe deposit company. They showed that he had indulged to a great extent in the mining stock fever which struck the town about twelve years ago, but his luck was so poor that the whole batch is not thought to be worth the whole batch is not thought to be worth $50.

Conservative estimates keep the whole estate within the $200,000 mark.

In addition to the heirs mentioned in Monday's Post-Dispatch, there is a nephew in Dublin, son of Mr. McCullagh's dead sister. He is employed there by the firm of C. Eason & Son. The existence of this boy was made known to Dr. Richardson by Dr. Charles Digges of 385 Page avenue.

Dr. Digges was a former schoolmate of Mr. McCullagh when they were both small boys in Ireland, and his brether is now manager of Eason & Son. Dr. Richardson will communicate with the young man.

Until the division of the estate Dr. Richardson will be Mr. McCullagh's representative in the stockholders' meetings of the Globe Printing Co. There is a meeting to be held Jan. 13, at which a new director is to be elected. The Public Administrator has signified his intention of giving his proxy to Mr. D. M. Houser to vote at this meeting. This may affect the selection of the director, and in consequence of the editor.

Then under the special order adopted before the recess the House went into Committee of the Whole and took up the consideration of the Loud bill to amend the laws relating to second-class mail matter. The bill which amends the present law in several particulars, the principal ones of which deny to newspapers the "sample copy privilege" and deny to books sent through the mails as serials the newspaper pound rates, was debated before the recess for one day. Under the order the debate on the bill will close to-morrow. It was arranged that Mr. Loud of California and Mr. Quigg of New York should control the time for and against the measure.

Mr. Loud having already made the opening argument Mr. Quigg took the floor today to reply. He characterized the bill as revolutionary and reactionary. He said it is proposed to deny to the people privileges they had enjoyed for half a century and if passed it would inflict a blow on every occupation engaged in the printing and publishing of books and newspapers and in their distribution.

Mary Trumble, for three years employed in the family of Mr. M. A. Rowan, editor of the Oshkosh (Wis.) Signal, said in an interview on the 23d of May, 1895: "I am only too glad to give my experience with the Ripans Taubules, and I hope some fellow sufferer will be led to find a cure in them, as I was. For more than two years I never knew what it was to be free from that awful disease, dyspepsia. I also had constantly a dull headache over my eyes. I felt so badly most of the time that I could not do my work as I should do. I became discouraged broken dows. One day Mrs. Rowan, my employer, gave me a few Ripans Tabules and told me to try them. I had spent nearly all my savings for months in doctoring and for different kinds of medicine that seemed to do me no good, but as these were given to me I thought I might try them. I used them (about a dozen) and then bought a box. The result was I felt like another woman, and I am now almost entirely free of my trouble with my stomach. and the headache is all gone. I always keep the Tabules on hand and take one now and then as I feel I need it. They have truly (Signed), MARY TRUMBLE 52 Pleasant av., Oshkosh, Wis."

It am for protection and revenue, and I would have a duty absolutely prohibitive on every agricultural product that can be raised in this country. Kansas would like duties on hay, oats and flaxseed."

How about silver?"

A large duty on silver would be a good plan."

Representative Bowers of California declared that the Wilson law had killed the cattle business in California, flooding the State with Mexican cattle. Labor was 50 cents a day in Mexico. He combatted the statements of the cattle raisers that but few of the Mexicans stock imported here sold, being bought in for feeding. Not more than one in ten were imported for feeding.

Dr. Bond's measure was built on broad, democratic principles. He does not believe

"I can speak my mind freely on this matter," said Dr. Bond. The situation is open for discussion now. The Supreme Court has taken the backbone out of the State Board of Health. There is no reason to be glad of that, for the Board was persistent in its efforts to elevate the profession. They have accomplished a vast deal of good. Their regulations were for the most part approved and all were carried out in good faith by the colleges, for we realized that they were promulgated with the right intention.

The only objection which has been made to the ticket is the claim that the grain interests have too much representation. Grain, however, is the largest interest on the floor.

LIFE-WORK OF POLICE MATRON LOUISA HARRIS.

LIFTED HER SISTERS FROM SIN.

After Thirteen Years of Rescue Work She Is Dying, With Three Stalwart Sons by Her Bedside.

Matron Harris is sinking, and may not live through the day. About her bed in the little room on the top floor, of the Four Courts are her three sons, each a big stal-wart man, and each a source of happy pride to a dying mother's heart,

Three weeks ago Mrs. Harris suffered an ttack of bronchitis. Her heart had been troubling her for a long time, and besides that she has climbed three long flights of iron stairs four or five times every day for 3 years. Those were the last years of her

Dr. Dorsett says she can live but a short time, that she is completely run down and worn out, and nothing can put her in repair. Mrs. Louisa Harris was born in Beaver, Pa., Aug. 9, 1829. Although she is the police matron, she always prefers the prefix of "Mrs." to that of matron. Captain O'Malley, from whom she receives her instructions, calls her Sergeant Harris. When quite young her parents took her to Ohio. Their name was Sample and she was Louisa Sample.

When 18 years old she was married to James Harris, and during their residence in that State three sons were born to them. From Ohio the family moved to Chicago, and there in 1871, Mr. Harris died. Soon after that Mrs. Harris and her three sons came to St. Louis. The boys grew to be men and drifted to different cities. James Henry Harris, the oldest, is manager of the Heine Safety Boiler Co. of Chicago; George L. Harris is an express messenger running out of Chicago. The three of them are now nursing their mother.

After they had drifted away Mrs. Harris became interested in charity matters and temperance work. She became a prominent member of the Independent Order of Good Templars and was one of the organizers of the St. Louis Protective Society for Women and Chridren.

In 1833 she was appointed matron to the Police Department. She was given four rooms on the third foor of the Four Courts.

In 1833 she was appointed matron to the Police Department. She was given four rooms on the third floor of the Four Courts, and one of them was made a cell for the detention of female prisoners whom it might be unjust to incarcerate with the underdrift of criminals.

In those rooms, and during the thirteen descending years of her tife, Mrs. Harris has lived and seen enough of the dark side of life to fill many books. She wrote one volume of her experience four years ago. Her principal work was dealing with misguided girls of tender years who were amenable to reform.

These girls, ranging in age from 12 to 18 years, were brought to Mrs. Harris by the police from the immoral dens of the city. Many a one of them she has turned aside from the broad road, lifted from the slums and placed her on the straight and narrow path.

and placed her on the straight and narrow path.

One day a girl of 15 years, dressed in silks and furs, bedecked with diamonds and redolent of rich perfumes, knocked at the door to Mrs. Harris' rooms. She asked for an interview with the matron.

She knelt by the old lady's side and while she wept she told of how she had sold her soul for what she wore. She wanted to give them all back if she could only retain her soul.

Mrs. Harris smoothed out the light curls, relieved the child's mind considerably by giving her a calico gown to wear instead of the silks and let her work several days around the kitchen in the detention rooms and then secured her a position as lady's mire that it takes more than a church to fit them.

But with them she has had success. She has supplied the different homes for fallen women with fallen women, and she has urnished most of them with work and vatched them, given them encouragement she was a woman for women.
During the thirteen years Mrs. Harris has been matron not one complaint has been nade against her. Her work has been of ar above what could be expected that the colice Board will have a hard task to fill her place.

It was hard work picking out the best one, because the leaders were so close. There were scores and scores of good ones, but that of Helen Gorse was placed first by the judges, because it was a shade more simple and direct than the others.
